Create Stylization filter and Render from an Image to apply across the whole image

1. Select a Raster Image with an Adjustment Brush To select a raster image with an adjustment brush, choose Image » Adjustments » Adjustment Brush. The Adjustment Brush lets you select areas in a photo and then apply Photoshop adjustments to them. (The Adjustment Brush is described in Chapter 8.) 2. Choose a brush type The type of brush you use affects the way it paints over the image. Generally speaking, the types are as follows: * **Brush** (Figure 5-6): Creates smooth edges. Paint from the outside edge of the image inward. Good for fine areas in which you want to achieve a smooth transition. * **Dry Brush** (Figure 5-7): Creates a smooth transition. Paint from the outside edge of the image inward. Good for areas of the image with fine detail. FIGURE 5-6: Use a Brush to paint over the edges of an image. FIGURE 5-7: Use a Dry Brush to help smooth out transitions and to maintain fine detail. * **Smudge** (Figure 5-8): Creates a variety of shapes. Paint within or outside the image. Similar to a brush, the Smudge tool can give the image a blurred effect. Try it on a hard edge to soften it. FIGURE 5-8: Use a Smudge tool to blur or blur and soften edges. * **Size** (Figure 5-9): Creates a circular shape. Paint from the center of the image outward, like a dot. If you set the brush to circular, the diameter will be a percentage of the actual image's size. If you set it to square, the brush diameter will be a percentage of the image's width. Use Size to paint small, dotlike imperfections that make your subject look more natural. FIGURE 5-9: You can use the Size tool to create small imperfections. When you use a brush, the brush's diameter is based on the size of your image. The diameter can be a percentage of the width and/or height of the image. For example, at 100 percent, the brush size will be as wide as the image, and at 150 percent, it will be as tall as the image. If you change the image size, you should resize your brush. (I cover brushes in Chapter 8.) To change the brush diameter, choose Edit » Preferences »

[Clinical study of surgical treatment for congenital obstruction of the esophagus]. From 1985 to 1998, 615 patients were diagnosed to have congenital obstruction of the esophagus, of which the incidence was 5.5%. In this series, 53 patients who were treated for congenital esophageal stenosis were analyzed retrospectively. The patients were divided into two groups based on the type of the anomaly: 12 patients had esophageal stenosis and 44 had esophageal atresia. The male/female ratio was 1:2.5. The incidence of atresia was markedly high in the first year of life. The mean age of the patients at the time of the operation was 8 months (range 3 days to 7 years). The upper esophageal obstruction was more frequent in the patients with tracheoesophageal fistula than in those with esophageal atresia. Of the 53 patients, 37 had placement of pyloric electrodes after partial gastrectomy and 2 of these underwent gastrostomy because of vomiting on day 6 and vomiting several times every day on day 24. Four patients underwent tracheal reconstruction, and the mean duration of artificial trachea was 168 days (range 3 days to 2 years). Overall, 47 patients survived. Six patients died of complications of the surgery. Two patients are alive with tracheoesophageal fistula with anastomosis, 9 patients are alive with esophageal atresia, and 1 patient is alive with esophageal stenosis. The primary repair should be performed for congenital esophageal stenosis, and pyloroplasty and gastrostomy for distal esophageal obstruction. Just plug into the headphone output and you should be able to get sound from both the cell phone and the stereo speakers. Don't know how to get a picture on the phone, but it has been like this for several months now. I do get the radio but I want only my stereo to have speakers. I have the smaller type ear buds that fit my phone. Any help would be appreciated. Are you asking about an A2DP mode for this device? That's for a device to connect via USB to your computer. If you're looking for an FM radio on your phone, it depends on the phone. Most newer phones (J2ME, Android) have them built in, but lower end phones (for whatever that's worth) don't have them. Can you transfer tunes to a device like a Zune or something? If you have high end headphones, you can hook them to the device via the 3.5mm output and use your existing 3.5mm output to the vehicle. Radio is built into the Dell keyboard and I need to get the Bluetooth part to work so I can control this radio from the same computer. I can get the wireless keyboard to work fine but I need the wired keyboard to work with the 3.5mm part. It's a 2007 Gateway IPX700. After the techs disabled it, they attempted to program it. All that happened is the computer tried to play music and would immediately go silent. Ahead of me he said I would need to have a Phillips head screwdriver and a Philips head replacement bearing. If this doesn't work, I will buy the service manual and try to look up the Phillips head replacement bearing. The techs think that this has something to do with the circuit board. I want
